

Madonna of the Dogs

Dear Friends,

It has been a month since Carole and I have been home from our trip to Peru. Because it was so rewarding and because we kept thinking of our friends, who so generously donated to the cause, we thought that you might enjoy seeing a few pictures. We cannot tell you how appreciative the teachers and students are; you helped change and enrich many lives.

Exploring a new map

Chasing chickens before the soccer balls

From Utah, we took vitamins, maps, storybooks, Frisbees, and teacher aids. In Peru we bought two photocopiers, ink, paper, pencils, pens, soccer balls and volleyballs (now they have something else to chase besides the chickens). The students in all three schools, along with the teachers and parents, were so excited about our arrival.

Giving crayons to excited children

Local mother on top of pass going to the jungle

They had prepared programs with singing and dances, and of course, boiled potatoes for treats.

Two of the schools are in high, remote Andean villages, while the other is a 3 day round trip to the jungle. Regardless of the location, you will see the beauty and joy in the faces.

Mucho Amor y Muchas Gracias.

To better appreciate these and additional photos, please visit the website below.

www.jansfunstuff.com/peru